Boot Camp Description

If you have a desire to help your community, your home, and your family through medicine, we want to help you with the medical school admissions process. The experience is a four-day, intense preparatory course for the admissions process. The Admissions Boot Camp was developed by the admissions office of the UK College of Medicine to remove barriers faced by rural students applying for medical school. This program gives you an insider’s glimpse of the medical school admissions process, with tips from the Associate Dean of Admissions and the Assistant Dean of the RPLP. If you are attending a Kentucky College or University and you wish to practice rural medicine, this program can help you.

RPLP Information

The Rural Physician Leadership Program is an educational program designed to train future physicians to be clinicians and leaders. The RPLP is unique to the University of Kentucky and is designed to produce physicians in all specialties who can provide health care leadership. The UK RPLP is hosted by St. Claire Medical Center and has partnered with health care providers, hospitals, clinics, and Morehead State University to train rural physician leaders. The program currently accepts up to 10 students per year.
